

MEDIA RELEASE

5 November 2010

Share in the magic of Christmas!

Start this festive season with the fourth annual Carols @ Multicap and get ready for a great night filled with lots of fun and outstanding musical talents. Enjoy this family friendly, community celebration at 303 Padstow Road, Eight Mile Plains on Saturday, 27 November 2010.

The festive, fun filled night kicks off with preshow activities from 4.30pm, including lantern and music making workshops, face painting, show bags, a sausage sizzle, and many more fun activities. Carols begins at 6.00pm and will showcase several local talents including a few of Multicap's own, the Southside Singers and El Coro. There will also be an exclusive performance by Jal Joshua, a former Australia's Got Talent Contestant.

Multicap's Chief Executive Officer, Joanne Jessop, says Carols is a wonderful community event and would like to thank the local community for getting behind it.

"Carols @ Multicap is about showcasing local talent and giving people with disabilities the opportunity to perform and participate in their local community. This wonderful community event is made possible by the strong support from the local community as well as our major sponsors The local MacGregor Ward & Councillor Quirk, Quest Community Newspapers Southern Star, and The Office of the Public Trustee." Ms Jessop said

Special thanks must also go to Classic Sponsors; Macgregor Lions Club, IPG Print, Wishart Rotary Club, and Signwave as well as the many other businesses and individuals who have provided support for the night with donations of raffle prizes and food product and volunteered their time.

Come along to Carols @ Multicap, sing along to all your favourite carols, and don't forget Santa's coming, so help light his way and participate in the lantern making workshop.
